EGGS PURCHASED HERE GOOD ONES

ACCORDING TO STATE MARKETING BUREAU MEN

PLANNING GRADE SYSTEM

This Would Enable Man Producing Best Quality to Get the Highest Price

The eggs produced in the vicinity of Maryville are of a good size and an excellent quality, it was shown yesterday in tests made at the Farmers Exchange by Gail Wisdon and Claude Edwards of the State Marketing Bureau at Jefferson City. William Heckin, manager at the Exchange, offered the best of assistance and co-operation in the work, Mr. Edwards says.

The bureau's object in making the tests is that of securing in time a standard for grading eggs in the state of Missouri. Missouri is the first state in the union to take up such a movement. Mr. Edwards points out that in order for the producer to get the best price for his eggs and in order that he be encouraged to put on the market the highest class product, they should be graded the same as corn and wheat.

Under the conditions that have always existed the produce dealer has not been able to pay as high price for eggs as he might pay, owing to the fact that there has always been a certain amount of waste. Some eggs are of such a quality that they can not be sold again to a good advantage or they may spoil before they can get to the consumer.

The State Marketing Bureau has six grades of eggs which it would establish to be used in purchasing. They are as follows:

Extra Eggs—Those weighing 24 ounces or more. They may be white or brown and fresh.

Number 1 Eggs — Those that weigh from 22 to 24 ounces. They may be either white or brown and must be strictly fresh.

Number 2 Eggs — Those that weigh from 18 to 22 ounces. They may have been slightly heated and may have a slightly enlarged air cell.

Dirty Eggs—Those that are soiled or dirty. It is pointed out by Mr. Edwards that eggs that might otherwise test extras, would fall in this class if the shell is soiled, since this kind of an egg will not keep or sell well.

Cracked or Checked Eggs—In this class fall those with a crack, but which do not leak.

Rots—This class includes all those that are not fit for human consumption.

Mr. Edwards and Mr. Wisdon carry with them samples and charts to show to the producers of eggs just what is meant by eggs of the various grades. They remained at the Farmers Exchange today and demonstrated the charts and the grades of eggs to the farmers. They candled the samples in the presence of the egg producers and let them see just what each grade is.

Mr. Edwards made this morning the following statement regarding the production and care of eggs.

"The loss in the State of Missouri on bad eggs amounts to five million dollars annually and this loss can be greatly reduced, and the saving would remain in the hands of the producer. In order to cut down this loss we must get every body to work and pull together, and this is the reason the marketing bureau is trying to see as many people individually as possible. "The hen should be provided with plenty of clean nest room, this will keep down the large percent of dirty eggs, also will keep the hens from laying out to a certain extent which helps to cause dirty eggs. And as is known it is impossible to wash an egg with out spoiling its keeping qualities.

"The eggs should be stored in a cool dry place and care should be taken in packing them for market so that as much breakage as possible can be avoided.

"Swat The Rooster." This is one of the greatest factors in making eggs better. At the end of the hatching season the rooster by all means should be separated from the hens. By swating the rooster and producing infertile eggs these eggs can be kept at least five times as long as fertile eggs. So this shows the importance of either selling, killing or confining the rooster after the hatching season.

It is very important that the farmer should demand good candling which iliminates freight charges, transportation space and case material, which costs just as much to ship and handle a bad egg as it does a good one by cutting this expense down the price of eggs will be higher."

ALLEGE INDISCRIMINATE VOTING IN PRIMARY

W. C. T. U. Asks Attorney General to Make Sweeping Investigation Of Matter

Jefferson City, Aug. 5—It is alleged that the Republicans were permitted indiscriminately by the judges at the election to vote the Democratic ticket in the recent primary. W. C. T. U. has asked the attorney general to make a sweeping investigation of the Democratic vote.

The attorney general in replying said that only when evidence of a definite nature is received could he proceed with a probe.

SHOW CHILDREN'S DEFECTS TO DAD

HOLD CLINIC AT BARNARD

Twenty-three Children to Rest Tent Yesterday for Examinations

Mother may be a little too sentimental and not quite practical enough with regard to the defects of her children and with regard to the proper care for them, but no so with father. This is what Mrs. Grace Bean, county health nurse says about the matter. She says that this is especially true if father is a man who is acquainted with the physiological rules of feeding and caring for live stock. Just get a father of this kind to realize that his child has defects that can be corrected with the proper treatment and he will be right on the job in providing proper foods and incouraging regular habits.

Mrs. Bean says that it is pleasure to her to see the interest that fathers are taking in the defects of their children and the co-operation they are giving in getting them corrected.

A health clinic was held at Barnard yesterday by Dr. Claude P. Fryer, county health officer, and Mrs. Bean, in connection with the Barnard picnic and the rest rooms which the health department provided at the picnic.

Twenty-three children were brought to the clinic for examination and to be cared for at the rest rooms. The health department had two tents which were joined together by a fly and it was in these tents that the mothers found willing and trained hands to care for their babies while they enjoyed the picnic. The mothers for the most part stayed close to the tent but they were relieved from carry the children in their arms. Most of the children slept during the afternoon.

Ten of the children at the clinic yesterday were infants, nine were school children and four were preschool children. Among these children, eighteen defects were found, which included malnutrition, defective vision, teeth, enlarged tonsils and mouth breathing.

Mrs. William Helpley and son, James, left yesterday evening for Camp Point, where she was called by the illness of Mrs. Helpley's sister, Mrs. Mary Kinsella. George Bickett of St. Joseph, a brother, accompanied them.

The farm of John A. Burch on the north edge of Clearmont was used in the lecture of Homer C. Boblitt on the subject, "Is Farming a Business." this afternoon on the first program of this years chautauqua. Mr. Boblitt took his farm as a subject to compare farm values and prices with labor of the railroad men.

In Mr. Burch's farm are 710 acres. Besides the manager there are three men employed through the year and there is $4,435 invested in farm machinery. A conservative estimated price on the farm, the lecturer said, would be $200 an acre which would amount to and interest charge of $8,520 a year at 6 per cent. Interest on the machinery and its depreciation would amount to $709 a year, which brings the capital charge to $9,220.

The lecturer proposed to give the farmer, railroad engineers wages and to give to the hired men the railroad firemens wages. The average farmer works eleven and a half hours a day,

REED VOICES HIS ELATION

SENATOR ISSUES HIS FIRST STATEMENT.

LONG BEATEN BY 5,000

Union of Democratic Factions and Co-Operation With Entire Ticket to Be His Aim.

St. Louis, Aug. 5.—Senator James A. Reed last night gave the Associated Press a statement expressing gratification at the outcome of Tuesday's primary. On the face of virtually complete returns, the senator has defeated Breckinridge Long by more than five thousand votes for the Democratic senatorial nomination. With sixty-eight precincts still out, Reed had a plurality of 5,972 over Long. The count stood Reed 192,566, Long 186,594.

Stating the contest has been "somewhat heated" the senator emphasized his position would be to close party wounds. The arch enemy of the League of Nations, who was repudiated by his party two years ago, was elated highly when assured that his plurality would exceed five thousand.

The senator was reluctant to make a statement, in view of the fact that Mr. Long had made no statement conceding his defeat, but finally consented when assured of his nomination, and told that Mr. Long had announced he would remain reticent until the complete official count was reported, which may be several days.

While Mr. Long admitted the situation was "dubious," the champion of the League of Nations and the policies of Woodrow Wilson explained that as he had refrained this long from making a statement, he would maintain his taciturnity until he heard the results of the complete official count.

Mr. Reed's opponent for election to the senate will be R. R. Brewster, Republican nominee, and admitted dry, while Reed is a known wet. Mr. Brewster has made the statement that "I am as dry as the eighteenth amendment."

Mr. Reed's statement follows:

"I am returning to Washington tomorrow to resume my duties. I presume I need a rest, for the campaign has been rather exhausting, but I feel that I must join my associates in the consideration of the important legislation now pending.

"I am of course, gratified at the result of the primary. I scarcely need to say that in the coming campaign, I will, to the extent of my power, heartily co-operate with all our nominees, state, congressional, county and city, to the election of the entire ticket.

"My friends throughout the state have been so loyal and have made so many personal sacrifices that I feel that it is useless to attempt to express in words the gratitude of my heart. I can only repay them by endeavoring to merit a continuance of their confidence and good will.

"In my opening speech I said, 'I do not come to open, but to close party wounds.' That is my position now. It will be my sincere and earnest attitude throughout the campaign.

"The contest has been somewhat heated. However, I am an old campaigner, accustomed to give and take blows.

"When a case is decided, I can always link arms with my antagonist and forget whatever rancor the dispute may have engendered."

BREWSTER SPEAKS AT BARNARD PICNIC

IS FIRST SINCE HIS NOMINATION FOR SENATE

SPRATT AND FAUST

They Spoke Yesterday Afternoon—Band Concert—Local Candidates Today

R .R. Brewster of Kansas City, the Republican candidate for United States senator nominated at the primary Tuesday, made his first speech since that election at the Barnard picnic this afternoon. Mr. Brewster arrived in Barnard at noon today. He was met by a number of Republicans from Maryville, Barnard and other places over the county.

In addition to Mr. Brewster, Judge John M. Dawson, W. G. Sawyers and Dr. O. L. Curl are on the program for addresses this afternoon.

It was estimated there were between 6,000 and 7,000 people in attendance at the Barnard picnic yesterday afternoon. Congressman Charles L. Faust, who is a candidate for re-election, and W. E. Spratt, who is the Democratic candidate for congressman, were the speakers yesterday afternoon.

Congressman Faust, who spoke first, reviewed the work of the Harding administration which has been in power for one year and five months. He urged the people to allow the program to be finished.

Mr. Faust took up the tariff and told of the protection to the farmers and their products. He favors a tariff commission instead of permitting the tariff to be injected into politics. Mr. Faust continuing said:

"At the present time I have five questionnaires on my desk from self-constituted bodies. I shall not sign a single one. I don't believe in propaganda. I don't believe a congressman should be in congress with his hands tied before that matter is being considered."

W. E. Spratt gave his address after the band concert by the Nodaway County combined bands. Mr. Spratt spoke of the necessity of parties and there being a safety valve for making the Republic safe. He reviewed the developments of the Platte Purchase.

Mr. Spratt said this district has had three Republican congressmen and they only served one term each. He referred to the present congress as a do-nothing congress. Mr. Spratt favors the eleven billion dollar loans from foreign countries be paid.

The program of the concert of the combined Nodaway County bands given yesterday was as follows:

March—"Sempre Fideles" (Sousa).

Overture —"Princess of India" (King).

Waltzes—"June Twilight" (King).

March—"Royal Decree" (English).

Medley—"Memories of Stephen Foster" (Holmes).

March—"The Legionaires" (Barnhouse).

Overture—"Scenes from Operaland" arr. by Hayes. (Excerpts from "Raymond," "Bohemian Girl," "Faust," "Carmen" and "William Tell").

March—"Frontier Echoes" (Watson).

March—"American Legion" (Buglione).

Overture—"Areadia" (Laurens).

March—"The Stars and Stripes Forever" (Sousa).

Miss Dorothy England will leave Monday for a two weeks visit with relatives and friends in Chillicothe, Osburn and Lock Springs.

BREAK IN RAIL STRIKE IN 2 DAYS

PRESIDENT CONFERRED TODAY WITH UNION LEADERS.

NO COMMENT TO MAKE

Labor Has Luanched An Appeal to Start a War Chest to Support Striking Workers.

Washington, Aug. 5—A break in the railroad strike situation within forty-eight hours is expected by officials in touch with the situation. President Harding conferred today at the White house with B .M. Jewell, director of shopmen's strike, William H. Johnson, president of the international association of machinists and John P. Nonan, head of the electrical workers. When these men emerged they refused to comment, saying the president had asked them not to.

Officials of the Big Four brotherhoods are gathering to bring grievances. They are expected to threaten with a strike, unless mechanical conditions are provided.

Washington, Aug. 5.—While the railroads and unions differ as to the condition of transportation on the roads the senate promised to intervene and has asked the interstate commerce commission for information. Senator Cummins announced that he would ask immediate passage of the Harrison resolution requiring information.

Washington, Aug. 5. — Labor has launched an appeal to start a war chest to support the striking shop workers. Eight thousand members of the order of railroad telegraphers have been asked to donate one day's pay which alone amounts to $300,000.

Officials of the railroad conductors predicted many thousands of train service employes will be forced to quit their posts if the railroads continue to operate the crippled equipment. It is feared accidents will result.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The association of railway executives denied that defective equipment is being used in an increasing amount and declared that the Big Four Brotherhood complaints are strike propaganda. The association admitted a large number of bad ordered cars, but said that this had existed ever since federal control.

4 ARRESTS ON LIQUOR CHARGES AT BARNARD

St. Joseph Party Traced to Corn Field Nearby Grounds Where Liquor Was Found.

John Irby, Frank "Hank" Garten, Myrle Landis and Viola Barton were arrested at Barnard this morning on a charge of possession and transportation of intoxicating liquor. The party were brought to Maryville by the authorities and late this afternoon bail had been furnished for each one of the defendants. The boys were under bail of $500 and the girls under bail of $300 for their appearance at the September term of circuit court.

The party were traced to a corn field about a mile from the Barnard picnic grounds by Deputy Sheriffs Gabe Purcell, Leo Atherton and John Rasco. There the officers found a paste board box containing from twelve to sixteen quart bottles of corn liquor. So far as is known the authorities were unable to find any evidence of the sale of the liquor.

Both the boys arrested, Gartin and Irby, are former Maryville boys, now located in St. Joseph. The two girls are also from St. Joseph.

Prosecuting Attorney Charles F. McCaffrey and Sheriff Steve Roach have been active at the Barnard picnic to see that no bootlegging is going on. They are also going to keep a strict watch on all other picnics to be held in this county.

THE BELL INVENTION

What invention has done more to make possible our present civilization is a question that invites endless debate. That question is now suggested by the death of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

It would be hard now to imagine the modern world without the telephone. It has lengthened human life by relieving people of the necessity of delivering messages in person. More than that, it delivers billions of messages, immediately answering them in the form of conversation, that could never have been delivered without it. The Bell instrument represents billions of invested capital and has made the name of its inventor known in every home of civilization to the ends of the earth. It is not for us to say that the present telephone will not be displaced by a cheaper and just as convenient form of distance communication. It may be. But let us realize that if radio had been invented first men would still be looking for a means of private conversational communication, whether by wire or without.

The late Mr. Bell became the medium of a bit of scientific intelligence whose possibilities were not foreseen. The inventor himself had no such expectations as have been realized. After the invention he had reorganized his classes in vocal speech and, as he was poor, intended to go on teaching. An amusing evidence of his humanity was his recent decision to have the telephone removed from his house as a nuisance. His is the most conspicuous admission that the telephone is not an unvarying boon. It is a persistent invader of repose and a boorish intruder upon other conversations and pursuits. Nevertheless, it is indispensable, and it has immortalized the name of its inventor.

A man's think tank is a good deal like a tank on his auto. It won't take him very far if it is empty.

The way the returns have been coming in, it looks like Reed will be the nominee before Long.

Col. Sacks got away to a good start with his wet goods but the supply must have run short before he got to the country.

Some of our local politicians have done more figuring during the last three days than the Reed and Long headquarters both together.

Mr. Sacks got a long lead in St. Louis for the Republican nomination for senator but he will be holding the bag when the Brewster vote is all in.

The prospects are good for Missouri to have a woman representative in the halls of Congress. Mrs St. Clair Moss of Columbia, president of Christian College, has won the nomination over two men and there is little doubt that she will be elected in November. This is in the eighth district so long represented by Judge Dorsey W. Shackelford. Miss Alice Robertson of Oklahoma, who has been in Congress for the past two years was renominated. How many other ladies are likely to be there next term the returns have not yet disclosed but it seems certain that the colony started by Jeanette Rankin will add several members.

The Woman Who Lives Sanely Reaps Reward

Do you look with envy on the slim young thing who plays tennis in the hot sun and never has to stop to catch her breath or wipe the perspiration from her face? You who sit back comfortably in that deep porch chair, with a magazine in one hand and a box of chocolate creams in your lap need not be green with envy when you see another member of your sex also on the shady side of forty, with a figure just as gazelle-like as it was twenty years ago.

That woman knows her business. She knows the perils hidden in the nut-bread sandwich thickly spread with butter. She knows the future tragedy which will be sure to follow continuous breakfasts in bed. She knows the secret dangers concealed in ice cream and delicious chocolate cake! She knows the catastrophes which come from lazy movement. She knows the pounds she once puts on will stick to her like long lost brothers. Therefore she uses wisdom in her choice of foods, takes exercise with regularity, lives sanely, and gets the fullest enjoyment out of life.

She has pep! She has fun! "Laugh and grow fat!" they say, but fear not. It is not the laugh that makes you fat!

If you want to have a nice circumference, take some work in the home economics department at the State Teachers College. There they will teach you how to be the size you consider most bewitching; or how to dress so others can't possibly guess how much you weigh. They can even teach you how to develop a good disposition through the food you eat and the clothes you wear. If you aren't too lazy to do your share of the work there's hopes for you.

(This story was written by Miss Ruth H. Jones of Burlington Junction as an assignment in the journalism class of the State Teachers College, under Miss Beatrix Winn.

STEPHENSONS HAVE BUMPER CROPS

75-BUSHEL CORN AND ALFALFA 8 TONS TO THE ACRE.

THIRD CUTTING MONDAY

Were Fortunate With Hay in the Wet Weather, But Lost Some Melons and Potatoes.

J. M. Stephenson and his son, Fred, have some bumper crops at their farm a half mile east of Maryville. Corn and alfalfa are the principal crops at the farm and they are as good this year as anyone could hope for.

Fred was out in the corn field yesterday and brought up to the house a stalk of corn that had two ears on it, one ten and the other eleven inches long, both of which were too hard for roasting ears. He says this was a fair sample of the field and that he believes at a conservative estimate that the field will make seventy-five bushels to the acre. This corn is on first bottom land. Ten acres of it stood four feet deep in water at the time of the flood, but will make the big crop in spite of this fact.

The corn was planted May 4 and is a 90-day variety. When Mr. Stephenson pulled the stalk yesterday, three months were just up.

Thirty acres of corn at the farm on upland will make sixty bushels to the acre, according to Mr. Stephenson's estimate.

A piece of alfalfa at the farm has been cut twice and each of the crops made two tons to the acre, according to the weights when it was sold over the city scales. Harvest on the third crop will be started Monday and some of the land will produce two cuttings after this one. The third crop is as good or better than either of the first ones. Mr. Stephenson estimates that the total crop to the acre this year will be at least eight tons. The first two crops were sold at $16 a ton. At his rate the value of the entire crop for the year would be $128 an acre.

The Stephensons have been fortunate in the harvesting of their alfalfa this year, getting it all up without rain. They finished the harvest of the second the Saturday before the big rain came on Sunday night. The third crop grew all through the wet weather and is still growing. The mower will be started in it Monday morning, just four weeks and three days after it was started on the second cutting.

It is the plan to sell all the crops with the exception of the last one, which will be kept at the farm for the milk cows.

Fred says that he had two acres of melons in the bottom that the flood ruined. In addition to this there was an acre of potatoes, part of which had been dug. He estimates that the acre would have made 160 bushels. The moisture in the ground following the flood caused the potatoes to rot and it is probable that none of them will be worth saving. The ground is to be plowed at once and put in late turnips.

RIDE PILLION ON MOTORCYCLE

Fair Riders Said to Be Deserting Saddle Horses for the Faster-Gaited Machine.

Have you seen the "pillion girl"? Not the demure, coy and shrinking maiden of years gone by, who rode "side-saddle" behind her swain on horseback, but the rollicking, dare-devil knickered girl of today, perched precariously astride the extra seat on a motorcycle, bowling along the road at a 40-mile-an-hour clip.

Despite the wide dissimilarity in the style of riding, the name has persisted in England and the "pillion girls" have become so numerous in that country that recently the department on taxation and regulation of road vehicles sat in solemn conclave to decide whether the "pillion girl" is a source of danger to the general public, the New York Sun states.

It is not clear whether "general public" includes the pillion girl herself, of whether the term comprises merely the motorists of the opposite sex whose eyes are unaccountably distracted from the road by the sight of a pretty girl on the rear seat of a motorcycle, flaunting graceful, silk-clad legs, her hair flying in the wind.

In any event, the committee reports there is no appreciable amount of evidence to indicate that the practice is a source of danger to the general public. They are of the opinion that no case has been made out sufficiently strong to justify the prohibition of the practice.

On this side of the Atlantic the "pillion girl" is apparently safe from molestation. In fact, each year sees an increasing number of women operating their own motorcycles.

LOSE INTEREST IN SERENADE

Masculine Spaniards Said to Have Turned From Romance to the More Prosaic Football Game.

Sad, indeed, to lovers of the picturesque is the news which comes from Seville, Spain. The serenade, from time immemorial the quintessence of romance, is passing away and will soon be known no more. Worst of all, it is being destroyed by nothing else than modern and unromantic football. This game is at present in full vogue in Spain. Everywhere young men are passionately addicted to it, in Seville as elsewhere, so that the young Sevillians have no longer time as formerly to cultivate the song, the guitar and the mandolin. Football engrosses them.

Soon one will not find a single lover capable of playing a serenade under the balcony of his Dulcinea. If Rosina opens her window Almaviva will not be there to declare to her his passion.

But lately, on Saturdays, the young Sevillians assembled and wandered through the streets of the town singing to the stars. Today they go to bed early so as to be the next morning in good form for their favorite game.

Services to Prevent Robberies.

Science, which has rendered us so many services, has now attacked a new problem. Inventors are pitilessly hunting the burglars of Paris. Many are now in search of means of defending the stores and banks against criminal attacks.

One of these most curious inventions consists of a pedal situated in the interior of the store. The burglar, if he watches the hands of the man, cannot at the same time see where he puts his feet. Then the pedal starts an electrical clockwork and at the same time an illuminated plate calling for the police appears on the outside of the store. Among the other inventions there is an overcoat with a special pocket for carrying a revolver. The weapon is so placed that when the attacked person facing the burglar raises his arms, the revolver is brought into position for firing and the act of raising his hands pulls a string which discharges it.

Liner Delayed to Save Life.

The value that we set on human life today has been dramatically illustrated by an incident on the Atlantic ocean.

An explosion in the engine-room of a freight ship caused terrible injuries to the second engineer, a young man named O'Neal. There was no doctor on board, so the captain sent out wireless calls for assistance.

Seven ships replied. In six cases doctors told the captain what treatment would be likely to give the best results.

But one passenger liner did more than this; it put 150 miles out of its course and sent a lifeboat with the ship's doctor in it, who attended to the patient and then had him transferred to his ship. When the liner reached England he was comfortable and on the way to recovery.

That's It.

THINK GIRL IS TRUE STIGMATIC

Reported to Have Sign of the Cross on Her Right Side.

CASE CREATES WIDE INTEREST

Some Scientists Hold That Such Marks Are the Result of Natural Causes—First Record of Such a Case Found Its Way Into Church History in Thirteenth Century—French Book Catalogues 321 Cases of Stigmata.

The case of Mary Reilly, a postulant at St. Germain's Villa, the Peekskill (N. Y.) convent of the Sisters of the Good Shepherd, who is under constant observation to establish whether she is a true stigmatic, has created widespread interest. The seal of silence imposed by Archbishop Hayes upon all who have knowledge of the situation remains unbroken.

A stigmatic is a person who bears on hands, feet, side or brow the marks of the Passion and undergoes corresponding and intense suffering. Some have sufferings without the markings, and these are called invisible stigmata. In the case of Mary Reilly it is said she has a stigma which is only one mark of the Passion. In her case it is reported that the mark is the sign of a cross on her right side and that she suffers considerably.

First Case Recorded.

Her case has created interest in the stigmata, as a feature of ecclesiastical history. It has been a subject of keen discussion among clerics and publicists, Catholic, non-Catholic and heretical, since the first record of such a development found its way into church history. This was in the Thirteenth century, when the most notable case was recorded. This was St. Francis of Assisi. In him it took the form of the nail wounds on the hands and feet, the wounds having excrescences of flesh representing the nails of the Crucifixion. On one side these excrescences were black and like nail heads. On the other side they appeared to be points which had been bent back to grasp the flesh.

Marie de Moerl, at the age of twenty (1822), was another instance and, though delicate in health, lived in that condition 35 years. Thursdays and Fridays her stigmata shed very clear blood, becoming dry on other days. Thousands saw this woman, including Wiseman and Lord Shrewsbury, who wrote about her. Louise Lateau of Belgium, at eighteen, became stigmatic, which did not prevent her from supporting her people by sewing. She was born in 1850. Another was St. Catherine of Siena.

Admit Stigmata Existed.

Even free-thinking publicists who have investigated reported cases admit that the stigmata existed as a fact, notably Doctor Dumas, a professor of religious philosophy at the Sorbonne, in an article on the subject in the Revue des Deux Mondes of May 1, 1870.

Free-thinking and Catholic scientists alike have questioned the miraculous nature of these wounds, and in the processes of canonization the church has never accepted them as incontestably miraculous. It is because of the extreme care that the church takes in the investigation of these matters that silence is generally imposed upon those having knowledge of them until the investigation has been completed.

Dr. Imbert, in "La Stigmatisation," published in Paris in 1894, sought to catalogue the known cases of stigmata in church history, and accounted for a total of 321 in which he felt there was every reason to believe in divine action.

Many of the free-thinking scientists have declared that the stigmatics induced the condition in themselves by vivid imaginings and emotional excitement, but the church logicians have retorted that imagination can never create a visible, bleeding wound.

The medical profession naturally insists that such manifestations can be traced to physiological causes.

German Fishers Take New Interest at Landing of Huge Sturgeon

The fishermen of Altenwerder, Germany, have taken a more lively interest in their occupation since a veteran colleague recently landed a roe sturgeon weighing 148 pounds on which he realized approximately 40,000 marks. The fish was found to contain 33 pounds of caviar which sold at 1,005 marks a pound, while its remaining meat went for 48 marks a pound.

NEWS OF THE CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION FOR PAST WEEK.

(J. S. Hubbard, Executive Secretary of the Missouri Press Association.)

Jefferson City, Aug. 4—Shall the governor be limited in his pardoning power by a provision in the constitution, or shall the present provision stand without revision? This is one of the knotty problems being considered by members of the Committee on Executive and Ministerial Departments. Under the present status the governor is given absolute power to pardon or reprieve after conviction for all offenses except treason and cases of impeachment. That this power has been abused in times past is shown by records which were placed before the committee at its request. Records were numerous of governors granting pardons in the last few days of their term in office to gratify political friends who importuned them. One proposal before the committee would give the governor the pardoning power, by and with the consent of a majority of the board of prison control or such other agency as might be created by law. Another provision of this proposal is that no pardon or reprieve shall be granted in any case where the convict has been twice convicted of felony, except upon written recommendation of a majority of the judges of the supreme court. Still another suggestion is that the governor shall give notice of ten to thirty days that he is contemplating a pardon, thus giving opportunity for hearings before a final pardon is granted. No action has yet been taken by the committee.

The members of the sub-committee of the Committee on Executive and Ministerial Departments having under consideration the reorganizing of the civil departments of the state government, in the interest of efficiency and the definite placing of responsibility, agree that the business of the civil departments of the state government should be performed through a limited number of distinct departments rather than through the seventy-one boards and commissions as now organized. The members disagree on the number of heads of such departments to be elected by the people. A minority report favors leaving the constitutional elected officers as at present, while the majority of the committee favors a reduction of such elective officers to the governor, lieutenant-governor and state auditor. The civil departments provided for in Proposal No. 121 are state, law, audit and accounts, finance and taxation, trade and commerce, public utilities, education, agriculture and public works, public welfare, military affairs. Proposal No. 14 calls for seventeen departments, viz.: State, law, finance, treasury, accounts, taxation, state highways, public health, agriculture, public welfare, banking, insurance, labor and industry, education, public utilities, conservation, civil service.

Three methods for the selection of the state superintendent of schools or commissioner of education, as he may otherwise be known, are under consideration of the convention committees. One is that he shall be elected by the people as at present; another that he shall be appointed by the governor and the third that he shall be chosen by a board of education appointed by the governor and non-partisan in make-up. The sub committee of the Committee on Education stands three to one for a board appointed superintendent and the sub committee of the Committee on Executive and Ministerial Departments is two to one for the appointive method. Minority reports will probably be filed with the convention, the question to be settled in the committee of the whole.

The convention recessed on Friday, July 28, a day earlier than had been planned, on account of the tragic death by drowning of Fred Collet, son of Chairman J. A. Collet of the Committee on Judiciary. The young man had been in Jefferson City with his father part of the session and was well known to many of the members.

With the primaries out of the way and with a prospect of less interruption from other sources, the members of the convention returned to the capitol August 3 with a determination to devote every available minute to the consideration of the reports and proposals before the convention. The three reports now before the convention will be taken up in the committee of the whole at the morning sessions, leaving the afternoons and evenings for committee work by the committees not yet ready to report. One or two committees are being held up waiting for reports from other committees where similar questions are being considered. In any event, the consideration of the reports of the Legislative, Judiciary and Suffrage and Elections will begin in a few days at latest.

"A little humor now and then" creeps into the convention and committee rooms. A remark of one of the dry members that he would introduce any proposition that was given him "by request" led the jokesters to bring in what is known as Proposal No. 265, which would repeal Chapter 52 of the Revised Statutes and enact the proposal in its stead. As usual, the proposal was not read in full, but was referred to the Committee on Bill of Rights. A day or two afterwards the chairman brought it back to the convention and said he thought it should be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs as it might provoke war. The sponsor of the proposal took exceptions to the chairman's making light of so serious a question and launched into an impassioned defense of his adopted child. Sensing that something was being put over that should be considered more thoroughly, an outstanding temperance member of the Bill of Rights Committee moved that the proposal be re-referred to that committee as he wanted to give it his personal attention, since he was absent from the meeting when it was first brought up. After the motion had been seconded the chairman asked the member if he knew what he was voting for and advised him to attend committee meetings. He then asked that the proposal be read, and the member's chagrin and the laugh that followed may be imagined when the clerk read. "It shall be lawful for any person, male or female, firm or association, or corporation, his, her, its or their agents or employes, to manufacture, sell or give away, or transport intoxicating liquors within the state of Missouri for beverage, medical, scientific or fuel purposes." Needless to say the member making the motion to re-refer has attended every committee meeting since that time.

Declaring that the way to insure the adoption of the new constitution was to include in it a bone dry section, H. P. Faris of Clinton, who has been prohibition candidate for governor and United States Senator, made an appeal to the Committee on Bill of Rights for the adoption of Proposal No. 191. This provides that "The manufacture, transportation, sale or gift of any liquors or substitute for beverage purposes containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol shall not be authorized by law." "The paid political prohibitionists left out the clause, 'one-half of one per cent' from the eighteenth amendment," continued Mr. Faris, "or we would not have to come here on that question. Kansas is enforcing the eighteenth amendment and you can't even get a prescription there. I'm tired following Kansas, and I'd like to lead the sunflower state a little in liquor enforcement."

Petitions continue to pour in asking that Proposal No. 192, relating to public health and welfare, be given a place in the constitution. Members of the committee who were rather inclined to drop the proposal now believe it should be recognized as important enough to be put into the constitution. A letter from Ohio to the chairman declares it would be a long step forward for the State of Missouri to enact such a section, it being the first state in the union that has given it consideration. On the other hand, some members of the Bill of Rights Committee hold that the matter is sufficiently covered in section 4 of Article II which states "That all constitutional government is intended to promote the general welfare of the people." The proposal provides simply "That the general assembly shall provide means for the safe-guarding and promotion of the public health and welfare."

The proposals before the Tax Commission, sixty-eight in all, are being considered by sub-committees, some of which were expected to report to the whole committee upon their return from home. This committee has a big job on its hands and will probably be one of the last to report to the convention. It is giving most thorough investigation to all phases of the questions before it and when it is ready to report the people can rely on its having made an exhaustive study of taxation and its recommendations will undoubtedly carry great weight in favor of the revisions of Article X.

Under various proposals before the Bill of Rights Committe juries may be limited by law to less than twelve in courts of record and otherwise, and verdicts of two-thirds or three-fourths of the members may convict of crime. A provision against the use of the "third degree" in obtaining confession for crime is meeting with much favor. Confessions are not to be used in any case against an accused unless voluntarily and freely given, according to one proposal. Women would not be compelled to serve as jurors if Proposal No. 126 should be considered favorably.

Special recognition of workmen's compensation may be made in the constitution if proposal before committee are adopted. They would empower the general assembly to provide either compulsory or elective laws and also to provide for state or other insurance under the compensation act. Old-age pensions would be provided for under another proposal. That the general assembly has the power to do all this now is contended by committee members who are considering the proposals.

"IT'S GOOD"

I was using a well-known household article when my friend came in.

"Why did you buy that kind?" she asked.

"Because it's good," I told her.

She asked me why. Without realizing what I was doing I gave her several technical reasons for the superiority of that machine. I listed a number of its mechanical advantages and one or more very special conveniences that I felt meant a great deal to me.

My reply surprised even myself. I had not realized I knew so much about it. After I had recited my reasons to her I analyzed my first answer, "it's good," and I found that answer typified all of the specific things I was able to recite about the machine which I had as a matter of fact recently purchased.

It had been widely advertised and I, as a large buyer for a household, always felt that any woman may be guided to safe and satisfactory investments for her own needs and the needs of her family if she will but use the messages which the manufacturers send to her in her newspaper or in her magazine.

Until I had said, "It's good," I did not realize that I had been reading so much about the advantages of the machine which I subsequently purchased. One after the other those messages had gotten into my mind until when asked to do so I was capable of repeating them almost as if I had been a salesman for the company making that article.

However, I realized that the printed message had not really meant so much to me as the repeated appearance. Seeing that article over and over again meant to me that many other women had reached the point where they could purchase it sooner than I and were well satisfied with it.

Almost instinctively the thought took hold of me that when I saw the name of a product appearing again and again I could feel sure that that product was living up to its promise. I could feel secure in buying it.

If only all women would realize that in whatever they buy—machines or furniture—clothing or food—dress goods or hats—jewelry or toys—they may save themselves unwise expenditures by seeking the product which through its advertising and behavior after purchase compels its thousands of customers to say, "it's good."

New York Basket Party That Is Really Worth While

Here is part of a novel "basket party" at the Sea Breeze (Staten Island) home of the Association for Improving Conditions of the Poor. More than seven hundred youngsters, children of New York's poor, are having a two weeks' outing at the Staten Island home, where they are able to enjoy the fresh air and sunshine denied them in the crowded streets and tenement districts of the city.

three hundred and sixty-five days a year. At the engineers scale this would give him eight hours a day straight time and three and a half hours a day over time each day.

Over time is time and a half with the engineer which would equal to 13 1-4 hours a day engineers time. This gives a total for the year of 19,344 hours of labor and a total of $24,946 required to run the farm, including the interest. The year's labor charge would be $15,717.

One hundred and sixty acres of corn making 40 bushels to the acre would make a total of 6,400 bushels; thirty acres of wheat yielding 20 bushels to the acre amounts to 600 bushels and 482 acres of hay making a ton to the acre makes 482 tons of hay. The relative value of these products is one bushel of corn equals to one-half bushel of wheat and to one twentieth ton of hay. Reducing this to corn we would have 17,640 bushels of corn or corn units. Dividing the $24,946, operating expenses by 17,640, corn units we have $1.42 a bushel for corn, $2.84 for wheat and $24.40 a ton for hay, the price which must be charged to pay a reasonable wage and interest for the farmer.

However the farmer does not actually receive this. The average price for corn in Missouri during the period from 1901 to 1911 the farm price was forty-three cents for corn, seventy-five cents for wheat and $9 a ton for hay. At these prices the product would amount to the sum of $12,228 income. Subtract the capital charge of $9,229 from the above and we have $3,000 to apply to labor; this divided by the 19,344 hours of labor gives sixteen cents an hour for the work.

Mr. Boblitt said that this was an unusually favorable problem from the farmers point of view. He has analysed sixty-three farms in four states during the last sixty-three days and the earnings on the investment have ordinarily been from one and a half to three percent, while the actual wage has been between nine and eighteen cents an hour.

The solution, Mr. Boblitt said was in the general realization that this is not a class problem but a national problem. It is to be achieved by co-operation between the marchant and the farmer and the farmer and the business man; not in a spirit of hate and greed but in the spirit of the golden rule.

The lecture commended the work of the farm bureau movement in the highest term and declared that it was doing a partiotic and constructive work for American agriculture.

"Through it all" said Mr. Boblitt, "the condition of the American farmer is a pitiable one and unless something is done in the next few years we will cease to be an agricultural nation."

Mr. Todd said at 3 o'clock this afternoon that the $1,800 had all been collected and was in the bank. At that time a number of tickets had been sold during the day at the increased price of $2.50. In spite of the fact that the picnic at Barnard took away a number of people who would otherwise have attended, the chautauqua crowd this afternoon was a pretty good sized one.

TILTON ON WARPATH AGAIN BECAUSE OF CANINES

The license must be paid or owner is liable to arrest—And you had better cut those weeds

E. E. Tilton, city marshal, who cut so many notches on the butt of his gun last spring during the maddog scare, is going on the war path because of the canines. But this time he is after the owners. An advertisement carried in the Democrat-Forum today says that the annual $3 license is past due and that the owners who have not paid it are liable to arrest.

And if you have not cut those weeds on your vacant lot or along your parkway you had better get busy because the warning issued today includes this as another offence for which you are liable for arrest.

This is the way the warning reads:

The ordinances of the city require every dog owner to pay a license tax of $3. This license is past due and if you have a dog and have not paid the lincense for this year you are liable to arrest.

The ordinances of the city require every lot owner or tenant to keep the weeds on lots and parkways cut close. If you are letting weeds grow on your lot or parkway you are liable to arrest.

This is the last warning. Lookout or you will have to settle with the judge.
